Civilian Traffic Later Canadian Army to Continue Control of Alaska Highway

WHITEHORSE, Y.T., April 4.—(CP)—The Alaska highway will "for the present" continue to be operated by the Canadian army, a military road, but will be opened up for civilian traffic as soon as possible, Gen. McNaughton, newly-appointed Canadian representative to the U.N. atomic energy commission, said here yesterday.

Addressing a ceremony commemorating the turning over of the Canadian section of the road to Canada, along with other joint defense forces, Gen. McNaughton stressed that the Northwest Highway System, as the Canadian section of the road now is called, was still a gravel road through country largely undeveloped and not equipped to take after the wants of the tourist.

He said it was hoped "considerable progress" would be made during the next year toward providing facilities such as hotels, gasoline stations and eating places needed before the road can be used by tourists.

He said the policy of the Canadian government to open up the

Social Services Cost "Startling"

BY CHESTER BLOOM
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA, April 4.—Startling figures on Canada's expenditures on social services in one month, February, 1946, were given to the meeting of the Trades and Labor Congress held here today. Mr. Humphrey Mitchell, minister of labor.

Mr. Mitchell recited social service items totaling $80,000,000 for February, a rate, he said, of about a billion dollars a year, compared to a total pre-war annual government expenditures of a little more than half a billion for all purposes.

THE ITEMS of social expenditure for February included: unemployment insurance, $25,000,000; family allowances, $10,000,000; old age pensions, $10,000,000; grants for World War I and II, $10,000,000; grants for World War II, $10,000,000; and post-war rehabilitation benefits, $10,000,000; dependent allowances, $10,000,000; and other social services, $10,000,000.

Mr. Mitchell pointed out the difficulty of meeting the request for decreased income taxation under such circumstances.

Requests Are Made in House

Govt. Urged to Announce New Immigration Policy

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, April 4.—(CP)—The Federal government yesterday heard requests from various sections of the Commons that it announce now the immigration policy it plans to follow once repatriation of the armed forces has been completed and the internal situation has become more stabilized.

Jailed

Fred Rose, MP, who faces espionage charge.

With business of the day devoted to matters raised by private members, talk centered on a resolution, moved by Ross Thatcher (CPC-Moose Jaw), calling for a "reasonable immigration program planned in accordance with Canada's absorptive capacity, its economic needs and possibility of development."

Mr. Thatcher said he was not calling for an "open-door" immigration policy, but he was urging a well-considered and a well-planned policy. He believed if Canada did not populate this country "immense may come and populate it for us."

Possibly most outspoken in the need for a vigorous immigration policy was Lt.-Col. Cecil Merritt, VC (PC-Vancouver Bureau), who urged adoption as soon as conditions permit, of a policy under which at least 200,000 immigrants a year over a long period of years could come to Canada.

OTHER SPEAKERS included David Croft (L-Toronto Spadina), Arthur Smith (PC-Calgary West), J. A. Ross (PC-Souris), Liguori Lacombe (Ind-Laval-Town Mountain), L. P. Picard (L-Bellechasse), Lawrence Story (PC-Toronto Trinity), L. B. Church (PC-Toronto Broadview), and Frank Zepinsky (CPC-Danforth).

Mr. Smith and Mr. Ross agreed immigration should not be undertaken at this time because of the shortage of housing and of employment in Canada.

Mr. Lacombe said he was opposed to immigration because Canada now could not take care of her own population. Returning veterans should be well re-established before immigrants were allowed to enter the country.

COL. MERRITT said he was quite satisfied that immigration was the way to full employment. Immigration would provide full use of the Canadian transport system, full use of government services and also would allow a spread in industry. He did not believe taxes could be drastically reduced until there were more people to carry the burden.

"Let us remove the worst of the embargo on human beings," said Col. Merritt.

There was a great trumpet last 50 per cent tariff on diesel engines. He did not believe taxes could be drastically reduced until there were more people to carry the burden.

AUSTRALIA WAS GIVING particular preference to veterans and to families with small children. One of the greatest assets an immigrant could bring with him were his children.

Mr. Picard agreed that the government's immigration policy certainly should be re-examined in the light of the present parliament. Canada needed a larger, much larger population if she was to dispose of her surplus and keep up her production.

Through naturalization, with no emigration, and with no forced immigration, Canada would have by 1960 as large a population as the coal assure a high standard of living.

Summing up, he said Canada should invite people who would be an asset to the Dominion—those with capital who wished to invest in Canada, specialists and technicians and skilled laborers.

For Next 25 to 50 Years

Big 3 Guardianship Proposed for Iran

By ERNEST BARCELLA

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(BTP)—A former state department official today proposed a U.S.-Russian-British guardianship of Iran for the next 25 to 50 years on grounds the Iranians are not "politically capable of solving their own problems."

DR. A. C. MILLSPAUGH of the Brookings Institution, for seven years administrator-general of Iranian financial affairs, said he would withdraw his troops from Iran unconditionally in accordance with the things that are necessary for Iran to establish stability at home and command respect abroad.

What Iran needs for a time is more foreign interference, but in the long run, he said, the interference of a new and constructive kind. He said in an interview, "Iran cannot escape foreign help or foreign interference—because of the weakness of the Iranian government, discontent and disloyalty and a lack of leadership, organizational ability and co-operativeness."

"THE GOVERNING class is practically hopeless. The government neither represents nor serves the people. It has rarely been weaker or more corrupt than today. Manipulation has it is today, and it probably never has been more so."

Millspaugh was a state department economic adviser from 1918 to 1922 and served in the Iranian finance post from 1922 to 1927 and from 1933 to 1935.

He said Iran needs his proposed three-power guardianship to start a healthy political evolution, and to build up within Iran the conditions necessary to a rising standard of living, and to a decent, orderly and efficient national life.

SUCH A GUARDIANSHIP, he said, must not be imposed on Iran. Rather, he said, it must be done within the framework of the United Nations charter and with the consent of Iran to avoid any charge of interference with Iranian sovereignty and internal affairs.

NORMAN WELLS, N.W.T. April 4.—(CP)—The Muskox Expedition has reached the "tree line," north-east limit of forest growth, for the first time since leaving Churchill, Man., last Feb. 15.

A radio report to the supply base here Tuesday night placed the 10-muskox team under Lt.-Col. P. D. Baird of Montreal at the south-east end of Dum Lake, some 55 miles southeast of Coppermine, N.W.T. The next objective is Fort Simpson, 100 miles further south.

An RCMP Dakota Tuesday reconnoitered the route to be followed later between Fort Franklin and the west end of Great Bear Lake. Suitable sites for dropping supplies to the snowmobile party were surveyed along the route, which follows a winter tractor trail through Blackwater lake, Fort Simpson and Trout lake.

Battle of Not! by RIPLEY

By Oscar Fraley

Today's Sport Parade

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.J., April 4.—(BUP)—Billy Conn today still is the same hot-tempered Irishman whose flaming feelings cost him the world heavyweight championship five years ago.

The handsome Pittsburgh puncher was leading on points in the Polo Grounds back in 1941 when he lost his head and tried to punch it out with Joe Louis. Seconds later Billy was on the canvas, shattered by the Brown Bomber's devastating fists.

Through those five disappointed years, Billy has vowed that he will never again be elbowed through the ropes by "Climb" Joe would he be so temper. But as Billy buckled down to work in training quarters, the shadow of that scene loomed over the end of a rubbing table.

It happened when Billy was in a sparring session with Sam Schipani, a fast little Pittsburgh lightweight whose job it is to increase Billy's speed. Schipani goes only 15 seconds, but he's quick and willing. He went in like a rapier and a sliding right hand drew a gusty gust from Conn.

That's what Billy's eyes hardened and the lips tensed. He was, of course, supposed to pull punches against the little guy. But when that night five years ago was a Pittsburgh Irishman with a hammer on his eye. The right hand landed with a jarring thump and Johnny Ray, standing in a corner, barked:

"There's talk it easy."

"There was real concern in Ray's voice. The little man knew that a mistake like that again could be one result—Conn stretched on the deck again while Louis waits to count in a neutral corner when they tangle again on June 19 in Yankee Stadium."

For Conn, it was easy to see; will not be much heavier than he was the last time. Which means he

Resumes at Boston Tonight

MONTREAL, April 4.—(CP)—Two games up in their sparkling Stanley Cup series with Boston Bruins, Montreal Canadiens left for the hub last night buoyed by the news that Murph Chamberlain will be available for the third game tonight.

The veteran, crowd-pleasing wing began his rise early in Tuesday night's game here but an x-ray examination revealed no broken bones and Chamberlain was up beside Jimmy Peters and Billy Reay for the third contest.

Montreal hockey fans, meantime, released after two of the hardest-fought games in many a year. Canadiens won the first 4-3 after nine minutes of overtime Saturday and repeated with a 2-0 victory Tuesday night in a game that went 16 minutes beyond regular time.

Dick Irvin, who handles Canadiens, disclosed after the game that he took a gamble by ordering his team to abandon defensive play in overtime and "turn it on."

Irvin said that just that and although only goalie Bill Durnan's wondrously prevented Boston from scoring on breakaway, the gamble paid off.

BOSTON, April 4.—(AP)—Unanimously asserting Lady Luck had been against them in the two Stanley Cup final tilt, they have lost to the Canadiens in overtime at Montreal, the Bruins arrived back in Boston last night determined to take the best-of-seven series and the mug.

Terry Reardon said: "It's a long way to go and they (the Canadiens) can't be that lucky all the time."

One gloomy note somewhat spoiled the Bruins theme of determination and that was the possibility Bill Schmidt, the Canadiens' star, might not be able to play tonight.

He suffered a charlie horse at the Forum Tuesday and did not get back into the game after the start of the third period.

Instating the teams are evenly matched and breaks must decide the winner, Johnny Crawford, Bruin captain, said:

"There never should have been any overtime. We should have had four or five goals in the tie last night (Tuesday). We should have chances but they just didn't click."

Billy Conn Plans To Carry Fight

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.J., April 4.—(AP)—Johnny Ray, little blond warrior who operates as Billy Conn's board of strategy, left the ill off one of his top secrets Wednesday. This came where the Pittsburgh pretty boy is training for his June 19 assault on the heavyweight title of Joe Louis.

Johnny said Conn would carry the fight to Louis, he said, as he did the last time, in 1941, on the 12th round, before he got his "fish" up and was knocked out in the 13th.

"Only this time it's gonna be tougher for Joe," Johnny went on, "has more punching power and more weight now. His mental condition is better. Remember he was worried about the fight the night before the last fight. And he has just as much speed as ever."

Johnny was kidding about this. Billy went through his first full day's work Wednesday, boxing three rounds and doing five more of floor work. And he appeared to have just as much of the winning bounce in him as he always had.

Kurovaki Would Like Join Phils

READING, Pa., April 4.—(AP)—Heldout George (Whitey) Kurovaki would like to join the cellar-man-pulling Phils if St. Louis Cardinals would like him on the trading block but definitely isn't interested in the outlaws League.

However, the possibility of the Cardinals turning loose their right third baseman seemed remote Wednesday as he made ready to leave for St. Louis to talk contract with the Cardinals' Sam Bronckow. He's reported aiming at a $12,500 salary.

"I'd like to play for the Phils if the Cards were going to trade me," said Whitey who is training near his home. "The Phils are an up-and-coming organization and the Cardinals are a team that's been money for players, they show they are eager to have a winning team."

And better still, willing to pay him.

Kurovaki didn't report to St. Petersburg, Fla., training grounds for St. Louis. He has been the Cardinals' regular third baseman for the last four years and hit .320.

Adjoin Inquiry Football Tragedy

BOLTON, Laneshire, April 4.—(CP Cable)—The official inquiry into the disaster at Burnley Park March 9 when 33 football spectators were trampled to death, has been adjourned to April 16.

Adjustment came after a witness stated that the inquiry was the voluntary admission by a witness that he opened the gate through which 200 spectators forced their way into the grounds, already packed to the rafters.

He found a padlocked gate in the fence which he opened easily with a key.

He asked a bystander to shut the gate as they left, but there was a sudden rush by those outside, and when he looked around people were jammed in the opening.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Women Learning to Pop The Marriage Question

One of the Pet Peeves of the Feminine Sex Has Always Been That Men Had a Monopoly of Courtship and Exclusive Right to Pop Question

One of the pet peeves of the feminine sex has always been that men had a monopoly of courtship and the exclusive right to popping the question. No matter how much in love a girl was with a boy nor how badly she wanted him, she couldn't come out flat-footed to tell him to be hers.

She had to dissemble her feelings and act cool and camouflage her intentions, and this naturally cramped her style, for few men are gifted with reading love signs and many have misread a good husband through his being too dumb to interpret her double talk.

OF COURSE in the days when every hand was to be supported it was manners for a girl to wait until she was asked before she would herself on a man, but now when girls so often keep on their feet before marriage the Little Women is often an asset rather than a liability.

Bulletin Patterns

BY ANNE ADAMS

IN SORT of sentimental Gallup Poll that registers what the young women of the country are feeling and thinking, what they want and what they are doing about it, I get hundreds of reports of hundreds of letters from girls and women who tell me that they have fallen in love with men whom they desire for husbands, and that they want information on the proper technique of conducting a courtship.

Some of these forward-looking girls say that the letters have never struck their fancies have never paid them the slightest attention, and they want to know if they should tell the dumb creatures that they are in love with them and ask them for husbands. Often a girl will say that she is rich and that she can afford to tell him that she will set him up in business, and she will tell him that she will marry him. And many maidens, with optimistic dispositions, think that the fellows who have been going with them for years and eating their mothers' good cooking but who have never mentioned either love or marriage, are just too shy to propose and have left the choice for them to do.

No doubt the war is responsible for this sentimental revolution, and the girls who went out with the Four Fours, they didn't foresee that they were adding a fifth, the Freedom for Women, to the Pop Question. But it is here to stay, and they had better begin to prepare themselves for it.

It won't be such an unpleasant experience to be wooed by a pretty girl, and if they don't want to say "yes," they can tell him that they will be a brother to her.

Only three mail pattern pieces make this flattering all-purpose frock. Use Pattern 4890 as real fitting vesting; it has NO shoulder seams. Pockets, skirt optional.

Report Causes Furore

Many British Service Wives Said Unfaithful

By MICHAEL FRY

LONDON, April 4.—(Reuters)—British authorities, churchmen and social workers, are startled by the conclusion just published by a former army chaplain that during the war an average of one in five wives of servicemen were unfaithful to their husbands after three years' separation.

AN UNOFFICIAL "census" was taken by 30 army chaplains among 8,000 troops in Italy when they noticed an increasing number of applications for compassionate leave because of matrimonial troubles. One of the investigators, Rev. Noel Richard Metcalf Hawthorn, said that according to official statistics he saw in 1944 that in 3,000 cases of faithless wives, 74.5 per cent of correspondents were British civilians and 14.5 per cent British soldiers. Only 4.5 per cent of adultery cases involved Allied and Dominion forces, while 6.5 per cent were classified as "unknown."

Contrary to general belief, the faithless wife was not the young girl hastily married and separated by war. More frequently it was a woman who was happily married for some years and found herself left alone for the first time since her marriage.

"SEPARATION from their husbands proved too long for them," said the report, "and the pathetic truth is that so many men in the forces were utterly unfaithful to their wives during the long periods of writing letters which might pro-

Says Ottawa Seeks Prolong War Power

OTTAWA, April 4.—(CP)—F. Fraser, managing editor of the Halifax Chronicle and former member of the staff of the external affairs department, yesterday charged that under the guise of a reconstruction conference between Dominion and provinces the federal government was trying to prolong the extraordinary powers it possessed during the war years.

"A letter that merely says: 'I hope you are well, as this leaves me no present,' is hardly likely to warm any about women's heart." Today more than 8,000 cases of divorce instituted by servicemen have piled up in the law courts and their liquidation is being held up by lack of clerical staff. But social experts believe this total represents only a fraction of the cases of known infidelity.

Most recent example of the hardship imposed on the Maritimes was the imposition of a 20 per cent duty on diesel engines imported from the United States. This tariff tended to hampering the long-suffering fishing industry of the Maritimes.

The Dominion government attempted to justify the taking over of tax-collecting powers by its ambitious plan of social security.

"IT IS UNFAIR for the Dominion to dangle legislation about old age pensions, health insurance and other social security measures before the provinces in the hope that public opinion would force their acceptance without regard to their underlying implications," he stated.

Nova Scotia wished to develop her own resources and felt entitled to special treatment from Ottawa on account of the Confederation pact and because of the disadvantages under which she had been laboring as a Canadian province.

"We are apprehensive of the impact of these Dominion proposals on our constitutional structure," he added.
